

Betty Smith

Betty is a 15-year-old girl living in a highly urbanized city with her 75-year-old grandmother, Elizabeth. They live in an 18-story condominium in a posh neighborhood. Betty is a freshman at the St. Josephs Highschool where she is enrolled in the IB program to fast track her education career. Concerned, yet motivated, Betty was planning to pursue medicine at the city's most reputable school. However, due to her grandmother's uncertain health, she is now considering a school nearby. Never the less, she is still taking courses from all major streams, namely technology and law. She is concerned of her grandmother's uncertain health and prefers to spend her day close to home.

Betty loves to spend time chatting and helping her grandmother. Once every week, Betty bakes an apple pie with Elizabeth to serve for her cousins visiting every Sunday. Every once in a while, Betty likes to change up the refreshment for the Sunday visitors. She mostly gets her new exclusive ideas from cooking pages she follows on Instagram or a newly uploaded video she gets notified on a cooking channel.

Betty, similar to the rest of generation z, is an avid technology user. She surfs the internet for any doubts she possesses and is convinced of the safety and accuracy of the inputted and outputted data. From her grandmothers occasionally arising pain to the reason behind her favorite celebrity's divorce, she believes internet has all the answers.

Ahmed Fakhry

Forty-five-year old Ahmed is a refugee from Syria and a single father of 3 daughters, 6-year-old Marium, 8-year-old Maha and 13-year-old Zoobiya. He practiced medicine for 18 years before being forced to flee from his home town of Aleppo, leaving behind everything except his 3 princesses as he calls them. Ahmed settled in Canada after spending 3 years migrating within the middle east before finally being welcomed in Canada. During which he worked odd jobs to sustain his family, while also making his medical expertise available to fellow refugees in the camps.

However, in Canada, due to the licensing requirements, he is unable to practice medicine and has resorted to driving uber to provide for his family. None the less, motivated for his passion of helping others, after his 10 hr work day, Ahmed spends a few hours every night studying for the standard medical examination.

Every weekend he takes his 3 daughters out for lunch where they enjoy a nice meal and Marium eats her favorite baklava. Following the lunch, the family takes a stroll at the High Park admiring the beauty of each season in the new country they now call home.

Dr. Gary Yim is a family physician at the South Common Medical Center. He has been practicing medicine for nearly 10 years. He grew up in a dense neighborhood in Shanghai, China. At the tender age of 9, Dr. Yim lost his mother in a car crash due to delayed response of the paramedical staff which lead to excessive bleeding.

He is a single man, who lives in a quite neighborhood in Oakville, ON and likes to keep himself busy with a variety of past time activities. He spends most of his spare time either socializing with friends, reading books or catching up on the latest tech trends.

Recently he has been getting in touch with an old friend from his undergrad who is now starting a Tech enterprise. His friend, Vinay, is building a commercial software that aims to optimize the clinical work flow and has even asked Yim to partner up in exchange for his expertise, experience and network in the medical field to scale the business.

Dr. Yim is a very charitable person who is often involved in voluntary activities in the community. Often making large sums of donation to the annual fundraisers for some medical research. He was even nominated for the Community Leader Award in 2016 for his generous contributions and copious volunteer contribution.
